Scribes and Illuminators

BEFORE the advent of printing, all books appeared in manuscript form. They were executed by monks in monasteries and by scholars in their homes. The task of making them, by writing out in book-hand each separate copy, was an arduous one requiring years of constant effort. Caxton, the English printer, related his manuscript-making experience in this fashion:

"In the wrytyng of the same my penne is worn, myn hands wery and not steefast, myn even dimmed with oder-moche lokying on the whit paper . . . therefore I practysed and lerned at my grete charge and dispense to ordeyne this said book in prynte after the maner and forme as ye may here see."

Yet for years after the invention of printing, the artistic beauty of the hand-illuminated manuscripts exerted such an influence over printers that it was customary for them to reserve for hand-lettering and illumination all titles and initial letters.

The Cloister Black type used throughout the art pages of this edition of the South High 1940 Annual is a modification of the cloister letter used in manuscripts and early printed book forms, and the illuminated initial letters and borders are reminiscent of the illuminator's art.

Dedication

Herbert L. Jones

"Great in his goodness, humble in his state, yet firm in his purpose."

It is to such a man that we, the graduating classes of 1940, respectfully dedicate this South High Annual.

Herbert L. Jones, a member of the original faculty, retires from participation in school affairs. It is difficult to visualize South High without the kindly smiling Dean Jones.

We experience a sense of keen regret at the thought of his retirement, but realize the justness of his decision. He has unselfishly given the best years of his life to South and for this great service we are deeply grateful.

Farewell

TIME marches on! As to all men, there comes an interval when one must lay aside his daily vocation and retire to the enforced obscurity of inaction or to the blissful haven of useful and delightful leisure; so one of these alternatives must happen to me.

It is a difficult matter to say "Farewell to South High" especially when one has been with it from its birth. There are only three of the original faculty left: Mr. Foster, Mr. Zinninger, and your humble servant. The first session began in September, 1911, with an enrollment of 365, exactly the number of days in the year.

Looking back, it seems like yesterday. I thought then that I was youthful, and I still labor under that delusion. The fact of the matter is I was of middle age at that time—anxious and scheming and desiring and wishing this plan ripened and that hope fulfilled while every wave of forgotten Time brought me nearer and nearer to my present state. And here I am. The mirror tells the truth even though the affection of my friends pretends not to see it.

Nine times out of ten it is over the Bridge of Sighs that we pass the narrow gulf from Youth to Middle Age, but the sighs of youth are often only misplaced or excessive heart affections. "To sigh yet feel no pain." To older people, deeper sorrows come. I have had my share, but to a large extent they have been mitigated by the pleasures of my life at South High. I have enjoyed teaching. I like young life. The smiles of the boys and girls have lightened my heart many a time. I only hope that in doing my duty, as I saw it, I have not placed a lasting shadow upon any soul. The association with my colleagues on the faculty has been a joy never to be forgotten. I know that I shall miss them. That the Old School may live long and prosper is the fondest wish of

The Principal and His Message

THE annual publication of South High is the record of the cherished happenings of the three best years of your life preserved for all time by picture and story. It is a kind of memory land, the journey through which becomes more enjoyable as the scene is colored by the mellowing effect of distance. With each passing year, your annual becomes more and more valuable to you as the iridescence of memory and reminiscence blend in a rainbow of beautiful colors lengthened and adorned by the bright sunlight of present success.

For you, high school represents the first active unit of endeavor in your life. It is the time when you dream dreams and see visions that eventually are destined to become realities if only you are practical enough to interpret them as signs pointing the way to successful accomplishment. Through the shimmering mists where you now stand, you see stretching away before you the shining pathway to success, dazzlingly brilliant in its promise. That success, however, is yours only if you strive for it. The architectural plans drawn today upon the dreams and visions of yesterday are not sufficient unto themselves alone. They must be scaled to fit your inherent capacity to work; then to bring them to fruition, you must exhaust every atom of energy of which you stand possessed. Your rainbow of dreams must be planned with vision and fashioned by hard work.

In your struggle onward and upward, it will be well for you to keep ever firmly fixed in your mind this precept—keep genuine honesty as your guiding rule of action, for honesty is the keystone holding aloft the span of arching rainbow dreams that show the certain way to greater success. George Washington, one of the greatest successes the world has ever known, once said, "I hope I shall always possess firmness and virtue enough to maintain what I consider the most enviable of all titles—the character of an honest man." So let it be with you.

Our parting wish for you is that you may enjoy health and happiness and a full measure of success in the years that lie ahead; and our fondest hope for ourselves is that you will come back to us out of your future successes so that our lives may be enriched by your friendship.

Since the beginning of recorded history, man has sought ways in which to transmit his thoughts not only to men of his own age but also to those of the indefinite future. In signs and symbols laboriously chiseled in stone, he left his crude record of the progress of civilization. Later he discovered in materials at hand the light carving tool and wood, and the quill and parchment, the means by which he could record more than the experience of a single life-time. Ever desiring to advance the nature of his thinking and the manner of expressing it, and sharing with countless thousands his desire, he sought to discover a swifter instrument than the pen.

To Johannes Gutenberg, a native of Mainz, Germany, is accorded the credit for inventing the art that has revolutionized the process of learning--the art of printing with moveable type.

Facing the Future

IN JUNE and January of each year hundreds of thousands of hopeful youths march forth from their respective havens of education into an intricate and puzzling business world. That world is somewhat different from the congenial, nonchalant world of learning in text books and school rooms. The gigantic horde of graduates are quick to learn this difference. Faced with the almost overwhelming pressure of competition, they find that it is impossible to do mediocre work and, at the same time, enjoy the hope of advancing to better positions or even of remaining in their acquired situations; for the employer has the advantage of having at hand hundreds of willing, competent individuals who anxiously await the opportunity to secure a position.

These hopeful young people undoubtedly observe still another great contrast between school and the waiting world. In school, knowledge is attained simply by reading a book or possibly by heeding a demonstration performed by the teacher. In the world, this knowledge must be put into practice; your twelve years of homework and class recitation must be applied to the necessary activity of earning a living. The more knowledge and the more initiative you have in applying that knowledge, the better chance you have for advancement in your particular field of work.

It is not true, however, that the world of vocations is completely dissimilar from school. One corresponding feature in both business and school is that education never ceases. Many times in your occupation you will be chosen to perform tasks which were not even so much as mentioned in your school text books. In this manner you attain more knowledge. The business of making a living is nothing more than education on a practical scale.

And so, fellow-graduates, if you keep these aforementioned statements in mind and allow your conscience and your brain to guide you in your attempts to put these suggestions into practical use, you can leave South High School with the definite measure of confidence and determination that is essential in the eternal struggle for existence.

Anticipation

ANTICIPATION, that's the thing
That spurs me on each day;
I plan for weeks, yes, months sometimes
Just what I'll do and say.
Reality not always brings
Results that I have sought;
But all the same it has been fun
Just acting like my thoughts.
It gives me pleasure aiming at
The things I'd like to be;
There's much more joy in shooting high
Than floating aimlessly.

THELMA RAE SMITH

We Are Grateful

CCASIONALLY teachers ask us if we realize how indebted we are to the public, who by the taxes they pay, make possible our education. I think that every girl and boy in South High School does realize this; for, underlying the frivolity and seeming scornfulness with which they seem to regard their lessons, there is a seriousness and a desire for learning which we have inherited from our forefathers.

By studying American history, we have learned how the public schools gradually grew until they are today one of the most important institutions in the United States. This growth has been made possible through the united efforts of all the people who sincerely want to better our country and further the progress which has kept it moving forward through these many years.

In no way would we want to retard that progress by going back to the time when only a few were educated and the masses of people were illiterate. We know that such a situation would spell the downfall not only of this country but of the entire world. Today the schools of America are the first line of defense against anyone or anything that would attempt to destroy our ideals and our loyalties. We desire that this line of defense, made possible by our founding fathers and maintained by both the moral and material support of the citizens of America, be preserved.

Today, when teachers inquire as to whether we really know how much the people of the United States are doing to help us to grow into good and useful citizens, who will have the control of the government in our hands, I say we do! We realize the serious responsibility that will some day be ours, and we know that the only way to thank them properly is to do our best to justify their faith in us.

JANET ELISE WOODS

The American Public School System

Y HANDS upon my head I place"—dozens of little hands in action, dozens of little voices in varying pitches, dozens of little folks doing their finger play exercises! Too young for actual school, yet starting in kindergarten where everything is scaled to their size and their minds!

"D-o-g" "c-a-t" . . . "12 x 12" . . . "the Capital is--" . . . on go the dozens of little folks into the elementary grades where the desks are larger and the lessons harder. But now their number is thousands and as their number increases, so they, too, grow. They go from junior high, where they have had a touch of vocational training, into the senior high, where they must make a choice for the future—classics—science—business—vocations—each to his own peculiar adaptability! For many, high school will mark the end of school days; but for others, more fortunate and ambitious, it will mark the initial step into the field of higher learning of college and university.

What a privilege! Why and how is this possible? It is possible because every adult knows the value of an education. Those who lack it feel it very keenly in this changing world, and those who have it appreciate it more deeply as time goes on. United in a common bond, these parents, anxious that their children may receive the best, make sacrifices in order to pay taxes that all may receive the same training whether rich or poor, the benefit being directly proportionate to the ability and ambition of each child.

A public school system is a necessary part of every country. Even communistic countries do not deny the need of training even though they have repudiated other important things.

So students, learn to appreciate a gift that costs millions of dollars and involves many sacrifices—a public school education.

The Boy Without a Purpose

go to school to have such fun;
I never have my homework done.
I sleep and laugh and joke all day;
I never study, I just play.
I'm sassy, mean, and fight a lot;
I never get there on the dot.
My school books, oh, I hate their sight!
My teacher's wrong; I'm always right.
Today is card day—lot of bunk.
Oh, My goodness! Did I flunk?

April Sunshine

FIRST a little sunshine,
Then a little rain,
Now some snow flakes melting
On the window pane.
Then a little wind
And now the sky is blue,
Funny April days,—
They don't know what to do.

The Coming of Summer

ROBIN, robin, red breast,
Sing a song to me;
Grass upon the meadows,
Leaves upon the tree;
I am tired of coasting and sliding on the ice;
I think the birds and flowers are really very nice.

Way of the Wind

DOWN along the meadow,
Out across the seas,
Vaulting lofty mountains,
Singing through the trees,
Goes the wind!

Nick

RAN all the way down to the harbor front to tell old Nick and his dory, "Faithful," about my inspiring vacation in blue Hawaii. Nick was a Portuguese fisherman and we were bosom comrades. I had missed our little talks down by the dock and I had been thinking constantly of our reunion. Nick had never been to Hawaii but he had visited all the famous ports of Europe and he would tell me glowing tales of his adventures in fascinating places. In Erin he watched the lads and lassies dance merrily on the village greens; in sunny Italy, black-eyed maidens stomped in great barrels of wild grapes which stained their brown feet a deep purple. I would sit with brown legs dangling over the edge of the dock while Nick brought to life these figures of my imagination. Every so often he would shade his flashing dark eyes with bronzed hand and peer out over the blue expanse of water to the far-off horizon. When I questioned him as to what he was seeking he answered that he was looking for his ship of happiness which would carry him off to his final port.

This morning, when I reached the dock, the blueness of the ocean was so vivid and startling that I couldn't see the "Faithful" at first. Then I heard the soft strains of Nick's fisherman song floating over the water and I knew that I would soon see his curly head busy at work mending a net. With one vacation-tanned arm raised high above my head in a salute to the grand old fisherman, I rushed headlong to the sides of the dock and almost fell off into his strong arms. Standing at attention, with the battered fisherman's cap that he had given me perched jauntily on the back of my head, I called to him. He wheeled around and his splendid white teeth smiled a greeting to his "Leetle Fisherman", which was his pet name for me. I was soon briskly chattering to him while he puttered about his beloved boat. I noticed that he was quieter than usual and he didn't offer to tell me of his wanderings as he had done in the past.

Nick loved the Statue of Liberty and we called her by our nickname, "Libby". He would always tell me, before leaving on his annual fishing trip, that he left a little of his laughter behind for "Libby" because she looked so sad and he didn't think that it was right for people to be sad in a country such as America. His laugh would chase away the deepest of sorrow for its ring was as clear and true as the chimes of a church bell on the Sabbath morn. I often wondered if he missed the laughter that he so generously gave away but he was never unhappy about it or about anything. He seemed to laugh more and more each day and I laughed right along with him for I was happy to be back with my friends.

After finishing his daily tasks he climbed up on the rickety planks beside me and with my slender fingers twined around his strong deft hand he told me of a beautiful seaport town in Italy that he had visited when he was a young lad. It was sheltered on three sides by snow-capped mountains and on the remaining side by the blue sea. Its people were all laughing people, as Nick was, and they loved the sea as a mother loves her first child. They were not bitter when the sea kept a loved one in its watery embrace for they were forgiving folk. Every evening at dusk, when the setting sun made a fairy-like tracing on the shining water, they danced and sang on the beach. As I listened breathlessly to Nick's description of this simple ceremony of happiness, my feet moved to the rhythm of their mandolins and I hummed to the lilting tunes they played. I knew then that this was the final port that Nick was ever seeking.

A few weeks later, when he was getting ready to leave on his annual fishing trip, I was on the dock very early watching him prepare his tiny boat for journeys through both perilous and peaceful waters. Before shoving off he clambered up by side and pulled out of his pocket a cherished replica of the "Faithful". A friend of his in Italy had carved it for him out of the finest wood and he lovingly caressed it for a moment before he presented it to me. A gallant gesture by a gallant son of the sea! Then with a gay salute which did not hide the tears in his flashing eyes he shoved off towards the distant horizon. I watched my two shipmates till the glare of the sun made my eyes blink and when I opened them I could no longer see Nick and "Faithful," I know that somewhere today Nick and his dory have found their port with the laughing folk and the tiny cottages with the red roofs shining in the afternoon sun. Every day, I can hear in the pounding of the surf, the echo of his laughter. It laughs at the world and I laugh right along for I am sure that he is laughing, too, wherever he may be.

Shadows

SOFT they steal across the lawn.
Deep green colors blend
Smooth into the light green grass
'Round each nook and bend.
Shadows fall across the sea.
Gold returns to blue.
Sunset's lost her Midas touch.
Shadows fall anew.
Deep they tint the mountains dark.
Distant hilltops fade.
Purple's changed to indigo.
Evening's come with shade.

ELISABETH ANN SMITH

My Ideas About A Senior High School

SENIOR High school is basically a social as well as an educational institution in the community. It should, therefore, be treated with the highest respect and should be a center of interest to every thinking person living in the community. In short, a senior high school should be looked upon with pride by all persons, regardless of whether or not they attend the school.

The various outside-of-class activities that the senior high school provides are usually helpful to the students who engage in them. Not only do these activities provide helpful diversions from class studies but they also teach the students to become model citizens through the principles of friendliness, good will, and cooperation. In practically every first grade senior high school, sports programs are designed to promote a sincere good feeling among rival high schools and to eliminate rival jealousy; to instill in the minds of the players the thought that games are not played for purely rivalistic purposes, but that they are played so that the participants in the game can receive the fullest amount of benefit that can be obtained by way of fun, teamwork, and hardy exercise which, when pursued in a proper manner, is an essential factor in the development of strong, clean, healthy minds and bodies.

The educational program of the senior high school should be one that offers a standard, precise course to each student and this program should be planned only by competent educators. The student, after having completed a course of this nature in a successful manner, should be capable of advancing himself financially, religiously, and educationally with much more ease than if he had not acquired this knowledge.

But graduation is not an end in itself. In reality it should be the starting point of the individual on the road to acquiring greater things—things not only material in nature but also spiritual in nature, things that will help him to be a better citizen, a credit to his race, and a blessing to humanity.

JAMES TOLBERT

That Glorious Trail

I know a road that leads from town,
To a sunny lane up high,
A road that goes around and 'round
And ends up in the sky:
A trail that someday must be trod
To end my griefs and woes,
A trail where I will meet with God
In a place where each one goes.
Many have stumbled on that road;
T'was those who did not care;
But all who struggle hard enough
Find faith will get them there.

ANGELO PATRONE

A New Challenge to Youth

"W.P.A. Here we come!" is the slogan that has gained notoriety for a high school graduating class during the past few years. This is an example of the cynicism prevalent among the present generation. The members of our class, however, must defeat such pessimism by greeting the future with confidence that cannot be shattered. If those youths, who petitioned the government for aid and despaired of finding their place in our present day world, would confine their energies to bettering conditions, rather than to criticizing them, they would more easily find for themselves a permanent position that would assure their success.

Many people, whose lack of logical reasoning has made them radical, claim that industry is not able to absorb the influx of young workers, because of the increased use of labor-saving machinery in production. This statement proves that they have not studied the underlying, basic causes of the present unemployment situation. Due to a series of astounding inventions and improvements, we have advanced very rapidly, and men must no longer exert strenuous efforts on monotonous tasks that are of a day-long duration. These men now have more leisure and are beginning to enjoy the finer things of life, such as the fine arts, literature, and science. History tells us that the Golden Age of Augustus existed when labor was done by slaves; thus leaving the Romans to pursue the arts and sciences. With machinery as our slave, such an era may also be our heritage.

Although we have not yet attained the desired harmony in industry, society, and the sciences, we are tottering on the threshold of such an elusive age. Such an idealistic age has not yet been reached because our society is not able to keep pace with the advancement in the methods of production. But in the near future, the era of readjustment through which we are now passing will be complete, and all will enjoy the benefits of our system. Mass production will assure everyone the necessities of life, plus unlimited conveniences; and last, but not least, society will have a place for everyone.

This may seem like an impossible pipe dream, but striving for such a goal will at least further the solution of our unemployment problem. It will also give a saner, more reasonable viewpoint on life, rather than the radical cynicism that is distorting the minds of the youth of today. Those who sneer at such lofty ambitions of youth forget that it is youth's prerogative to be idealistic, for youthful optimism must counteract senile pessimism if society is to pursue a steadfast course of balance between production and purchasing power.

So here's a wish for the revival of the fighting American spirit that placed our nation in the commanding position she holds today among the nations of the world.

DON HART

My High School Years

When I was just sophomore
I'd sniffle, weep, and bawl;
I couldn't get to class on time
For congestion in the hall.
But when I was a junior
I conquered all my fears,
In spite of numerous bruises
And buckets full of tears.

When I became a senior
I woke up as to life;
I ruined all the desks in school
By carving with my knife.
And way back there in history class
I'd lean back in my seat,
I'd close my eyes and dream awhile;
For life was very sweet.

In spite of all the "beefing,"
That I've done heretofore,
If I could ever have my choice,
I'd do it all once more.

BILL KELLEY

A Place in the Sun

A dark, foreboding mist, a cloudlike pall hangs over the minds of present day students. Of what this cloud consists cannot be rightly determined. It may be a lurking fear, a premonition of danger that down through the ages has prodded mankind onward until he has become the superior being that he today claims to be. Whatever it may be, whatever appellation it may bear, though it causes much conjecture and argument, it is the unyielding force which, if unheeded, lets man drop to a depth far beneath his divine birthright, and if heeded, makes him reach for and attain his place in the sun.

A place in the sun is correctly defined as a feeling of self assurance that one is recognized by society to be a person possessed of sagacity, wealth, and intelligence and enjoying the respect of his fellow men.

In the light of these things, the present day student must summon to himself all of his faculties, for he is forced to contend with great competition and many obstacles before attaining his goal. Today, when more than an honest countenance is considered in a young applicant, the willing and capable worker is the only one who will find his place in the sun.

WILLIAM FARRAGHER

A Graduating Senior!

BEFORE me lies a misted view,
Yet in that mist a light shines through.
It is the light of all that's mine,
The love I have, the faith I find
Within my heart to guide me true.
Behind me pensively I roam—
There lie the seeds that have been sown,
The mind that with much help has grown
And those ideals that are my own
Instilled in me by school and home.
I've studied hard, then let things slip,
Then tried again with tighter grip.
I've also joined in ice-box raids,
And gay and frivolous escapades.
Ahead I'll find a harder trip.
I'm scared because it isn't clear
Just what's ahead and it's so near.
But if I try with all I've gained
My misted goal will be attained.
—I am no longer lost in fear!

MARIAN HENDRICKSON

We Are Appreciative

STUDENTS frequently make disparaging remarks concerning schools, thereby giving the impression that they attend these institutions, not because they desire an education, but for the reason that they are forced to do so by the law and by their parents.

Such an attitude is discouraging to the educators and thinkers of America, who realize that knowledge is essential to an advanced civilization. Nevertheless, upon probing deeper into the minds of students, one finds that, despite their flippant manner of satirizing teachers, young boys and girls really do earnestly desire to make the most of the educational opportunities offered them in America.

Votes, taken by secret ballot in our own classrooms at South High School, reveal that only a conspicuously few students would, if so permitted, leave school and thus scatter to the winds their advantages for intellectual advancement.

As pupils frequently return to schools for post-graduate courses, and as colleges each year report a higher enrollment, the fact is proved that the younger generation is determined to make the most of our American educational system, which unlike any other system in the world, provides equal opportunities for the rich and the poor.

Further investigation proves that the students of today have resolved that they too shall provide for a similar, perhaps even better, education for future generations, in order that our standard of living—the highest in the world—may reach still greater heights.

Yes, students do appreciate the value of a good education. The taxpayers of America may feel assured that their money is not being wasted; it is instead providing for a better and wiser United States of America.

BERNICE MIRKIN

Symphony of Spring

A waiting universe is one in tune,
The Master Maestro raises his baton.
Then from celestial realms to earth below
The stirring strains from Symphony of Spring
Awake all nature to abundant life.
Refreshing silver drops revive the hearts.
By rushing streams that wind through virgin woods,
Hepaticas and violets appear.
In memory of winter's beauty past,
'Mid bursting green the snowy dogwood stands.
The songs of birds are wafted heavenward.
Across a turquoise pasture, clouds like flocks
Of woolly lambs in frolic, glide and sail.
So nature, wonderful and sanctified,
Like moving music is a balm to souls.

The Humble Printer

Benjamin Franklin symbolizes for the American high school student of today the promise of achievement. Possessed of no unusual powers, endowed by nature with little or no personal charm, Franklin discovered through thoughtful consideration and wholesome industry the secret key that unlocked for him and succeeding generations the riches of the world.

Girls League

The purpose of this organization is to represent the girls of the school, plan activities for them, and help in the solution of their problems. The membership in the League consists of one representative from each home room elected by the girls of that room. The League assisted the January Senior class at a tea given for parents of the graduating seniors and arranged a tea for parents of new students. Miss Marian Maiden, dean of girls, is the adviser.

The 1940 officers are as follows: president, Martha Jean Conner; vice-president, Martha Gessner; secretary, Thelma Jolly; treasurer, Mary Callan.

The members of the Girls' League are as follows: Florence Adler, Muriel Appel, Violet Barnes, Virginia Beard, Rose Ann Berger, Beverly Boase, Mary Briach, Mary Callan, Theo Carlson, Anita Collins, Martha Jean Conner, June Cunningham, Juanita Daniels, Marion D'Orazio, Mildred Ekblad, Rose Ann Elter, Helen Fasilis, Virginia Flick, Melba Fitch, Catherine Freed, Betty Furlen, Martha Gessner, Mildred Grandstaff, Jane Green, Mary Jane Harkins, Marion Hendrickson, Bertha Himes, Viola Irving, Naomi Joerndt, Thelma Jolly, Marilyn Kelly, Jane Komp, Shirley Kenvin, Jane Kotsovolos, Ruth Lawson, Alice Leone, Mary McClaren, Marcia Martin, Phyllis Marsden, Marguerite McFarland, Dorothy Mansfield, Jane Meany, Grace Miller, Marjorie Montgomery, Beverly Myers, Irene Nemeth, Elsie Orben, Sarah Owen, Jean Peacock, Marjorie Pabst, Ann Pizanis, Vivian Poindexter, Norma Powell, Dorothy Redmond, Esther Rogensky, Henrietta Rosenfield, Roberta Sands, Anita Scott, Margaret Shannon, Mary Sheridan, Elisabeth Smith, Mary Lou Snyder, Marie Steele, Juanita Taylor, Patricia Thompson, Anna Tych, Grace Walsh, Ida White, Katherine Williams, Mary Helen Wolfe, Virginia Zapor, Ann Zlunko.

National Honor Society

THE National Honor Society is an organization representative of all the other groups of the school. Its members are selected by the faculty from a list comprised of the top ranking twenty-five per cent of the senior class. Of this group ten per cent are elected the first semester and five per cent the second. To date more than one thousand two hundred South High students have been elected. The cardinal principles of the society are Scholarship, Leadership, Character and Service. The emblem of the National Honor Society is the key-stone and the flaming torch. The following officers served during the first semester: John Nelson, president; Fritz Oyen, vice-president; Harriet Smith, secretary; and Duane Barret, treasurer.

National Honor Society

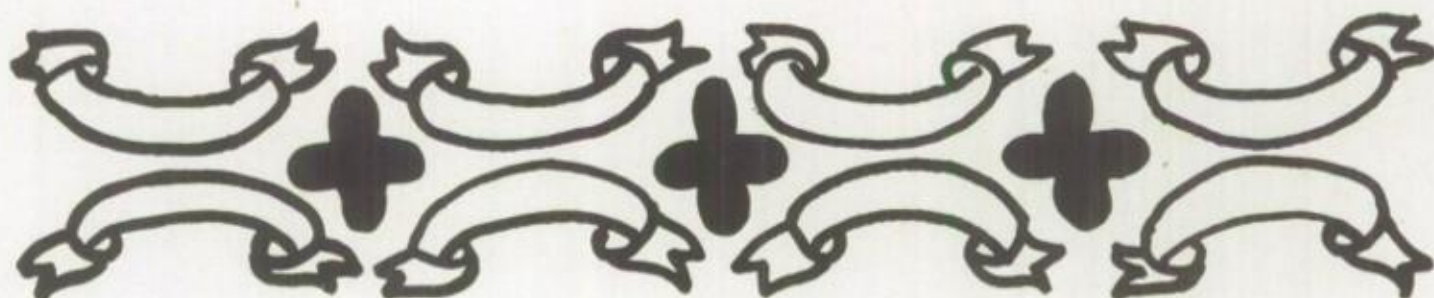

MEMBERS elected the first semester include Rose Ann Barnes, Helen Bayus, Matilda Belosic, Bill Berkman, Dan Block, Beverly Boase, Mary Briach, Robert Bricker, Mary Brinko, Louis Bydo, Evelyn Camm, Lina Mae Caughman, Sophia Chengellis, Martha Jean Conner, Irene Costakis, June Cunningham, Lois DeCarpentier, Helen DeCicco, Francis Dugan, Helen Fasilis, Kay Finger, Catherine Freed, Betty Furlen, William J. Monitors

THE monitor system of South High has proved effective. Students selected on the basis of scholarship, previous experience, and faculty recommendation serve as monitors. They are assigned to hall desks for one period each day. Their duties consist of checking the names of all students who pass their desks, of inspecting the security of lockers, and of guaranteeing a state of orderliness in their assigned areas. Mr. Scannell, general supervisor of monitors, is assisted each period by one member of the faculty.

Monitors

THE Monitors for the school year of 1939-40 are as follows: Helen Adams, Ward Baker, Elaine Barret, Dorothy Baumiller, Bill Baun, Lola Beasella, Bess Bedell, E. Beinstion, Helen Belosic, Bill Berkman, Julius Boggio, June Brown, Peggy Brown, Peggy Bullock, Ella Mae Burns, Mary Callan, Marilyn Campbell, Theo Carlson, Ray Carlstrom, Clifford Carney, Naomi Carpenter, Lucille Ceglie, Bill Chamar, Eleanor Coeney, Anita Collins, Charles Collins, Marjorie Coleman, Martha Jean Conner, Audrey Cook, Doris Cooper.

Annual Committees

Annual Committees

TO the Annual Committees of the January and June Senior Classes fell the responsibility of preparing and publishing the 1940 Edition of the South High Annual.

The committees chose for the theme of the publication the five hundredth anniversary of the invention of printing by Johannes Gutenberg and endeavored to relate all art features to the theme. The committees wish to express their sincere appreciation to all those who participated in production activities, submitted contributions for consideration, and aided generally in furthering the work of the 1940 South High Annual.

“The Whole Booke of Psalmes”

This year marks the three hundredth anniversary of printing in America. Between the “Bay Psalme Book,” a collection of versified Psalms, printed in 1640 by Stephen Day and his young son, Matthew, and the Yearbook of South High, a collection of picturizations and descriptions, printed in 1940 on the powerful presses of a great commercial firm, there is a similarity with a difference.

The “Bay Psalm Book” was a painstaking attempt by three eminent clergymen to put the Psalms into verse form for use in public worship. Young Matthew Day, a lad of eighteen with some small knowledge of printing; worked at the side of his teacher-father to produce the first printed book in America. Today in the year 1940, the South High Yearbook is the painstaking attempt by an arduous group of young Matthews working at the side of their teacher-advisers to put the account of their achievements on record, while the task of printing falls to those skilled in the art.

The South High Band

Kenady "H" Myra

The Instrumental Music of South High School

"MUSIC, the finest of the cultural arts," this is the aim that Mr. Armstrong through his competent and capable leadership tries to instill in the minds and hearts of students attending South High School. The boys and girls in the instrumental classes look forward to their musical training daily. Under Mr. Armstrong's direction, they study and play music from the world's greatest masters.

Our Band, which consists of eighty pieces, scored great applause during the football season with their appealing music and their dashing uniforms. One influential citizen of Youngstown remarked, "It is the finest band that has marched in this valley." And we hope that our band will always attain high standard.

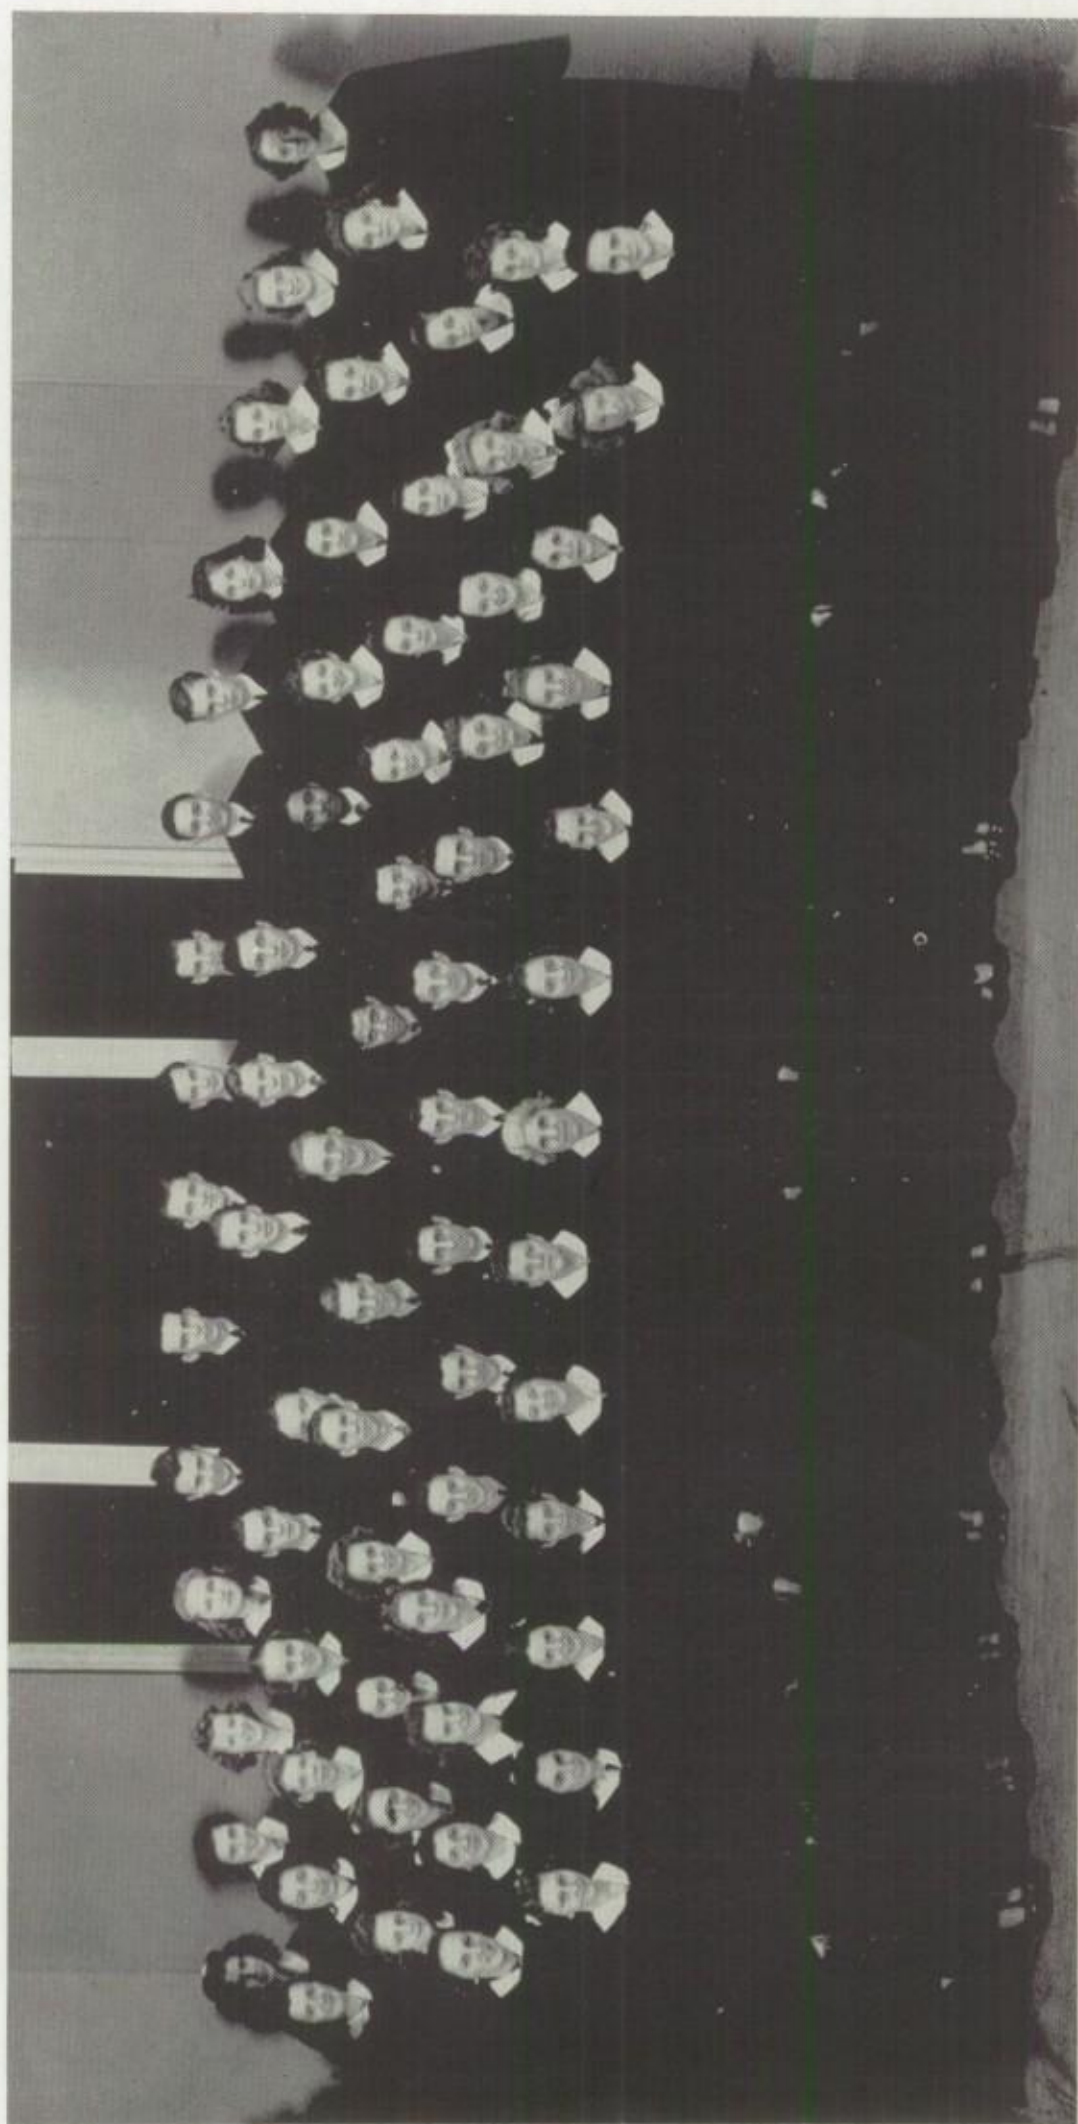

Our Symphony Orchestra is composed of all the instruments necessary for symphonic music from a violin to an English horn. The music library at South High School is very complete, thus enabling the student to study music from the oldest to the most modern composers.

The Junior Orchestra consists of music students who are not so far advanced but are ambitious to join either the band or the orchestra.

By our semi-annual concerts, we are able to purchase new instruments or repair damaged ones, so as to keep our musical department up to standard.

The Instrumental Department wishes to bid farewell to all graduating seniors and hopes that they have enjoyed their musical training and education under the capable direction of Mr. Armstrong, and further that they may continue their musical education if possible, since "Music is the finest of the cultural arts."

With pleasure and pride, we of South High School wish to extend congratulations to those worthy contestants from our school who participated in the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs. They have brought honor to us and to the state of Ohio and have achieved for themselves an outstanding reputation in music. They are Ruth Mauerman, cello; Rudolph Benetsky, piano; Nancy James, piano; Steve Tatar, violin; Jack Bowie, trumpet; and Bill Cramer, trumpet.

The South High Choir

"Music, the greatest good that mortals know,
And all of Heaven we have below."—Addison

DURING the eight years of direction under Miss Sadie Baird, the South High Vocal Music Department has progressed rapidly. When Miss Baird came to South, as supervisor of music, the department was represented by a small glee club and a choir of only twenty-five members. Today the department consists of three sections of girls' glee clubs, a boys' glee club, and a choir of over eighty voices. The choir represents the senior chorus of the department. To qualify for membership in the choir the student must have had two or more years of chorus work, be able to read music readily, have a suitable personality, and be willing to participate in all the performances of the choir. Many of the performances of the choir are in response to invitations from social organizations to sing on special programs. A successful performance of such occasions requires the cooperation of every choir member. The choir participates in many activities throughout the year, the most important of which are the winter and spring concerts.

Choir girls for September 1939 to January 1940 were: Katheryn Adovasio, Muriel Appel, Lucille Bahm, Rose Ann Berger, Regina Berkowitz, Beverly Boase, Gertrude Booth, Vera Bushong, Lucille Ceglie, Gloria Cianciola, Martha Jean Conner, Irene Costakis, Morphia Cummings, June Cunningham, Helen DeCicco, Ann Diehm, Mabel Douglas, Frances Dugan, Roseann Elter, Virginia Elias, Alice Faust, Marguerita Felton, Betty Herchick, Helena Fye, Marjorie Houser, Francis Huth, Margaret James, Wanda Jones, Carolyn Keith, Joan Mackin, Shirley Malkin, Eleanor Martin, Katherine Mathews, Jean Miller, Marjorie Montgomery, Ruth Nelson, Helen Nicolau, Audrey Price, Mary Putnam, Mary Reakes, Anna Betta Rosenberg, Barbara Russell, Margaret Shannon, Nancy Simmerly, Harriet Smith, Mary Lou Snyder, Lois Westlund, Joan Wilber.

Choir boys for September 1939 to January 1940 were: Claire Bigelow, Sterling Bondeson, Robert Bradlyn, Burt Butcher, Jack Colburn, Albert Creed, Jack Davies, Wesley Dawson, Fred Gartner, Dick Guttridge, Jack Gwatkin, Edward Helman, Stanley Huber, Bill Jamison, Jack Kuhns, John Leone, Dan Lewis, Victor Mannino, Joe Mirkin, George Mishler, Bob Monaco, Clarence Schaefer, Robert Scull, Jonathan Sissel, Donald Thomas, Jack Wile, Robert Wollter.

The new members for January 1940 to June 1940 are: Jennie Aberd, Edith Arquilla, Norma Bartholome, Theresa Basile, Olga Bertrand, Ruth Blackburn, Ann Braden, Naomi Carpenter, Christine Chiconne, Ida Constant, Winnifred Corkill, Clara Cyphert, Alice Dixon, Audrey Grimm, Betty Gustafson, Elinor Heck, Louise Jones, Twila Johnson, Helen Jones, Le Etta Kerlin, Mary Jane Leatherman, Stella Mathews, Florence McQuiston, Shirley Pincus, Dorothy Portofe, Rosemary Powell, Margaret Ridder, Betty Smith, Marian Smith, Norma Mae Smith, Irene Thompson, Edna Tocheck, Rosemarie Verterano, Dorothy Webb, June Whiteside, Albert Carter, Steve Chelekis, Brin Jenkins, Jack Jurey, James Longberry, Ray Ossman, Jack Owens, Gilbert Rieger, Christopher Rosser, Alfred Stabilito, Austin Whippo.

January Senior Play

CHARLES George's farce comedy in three acts, "Give Me Credit," was presented, December 8, 1939, in the South High Auditorium by an able cast under the direction of Mr. Thomas and Miss Nichol.

The play concerns the amusing exploits of a playboy, Spencer Atwell. In order to be glamorous in the eyes of his sweetheart, Kay Lindsey, and also, to deceive his mother so he may remain in Chicago, he impersonates an artist. At this point his mother and his hometown girl appear and demand proof of his artistic ability.

His partners in the deception are a struggling young artist, Gregory Thurston; Mark Warrington, a playwright; Valerie Ziegler, an actress; and Gloria Gilbert, a model.

The cast was as follows:

Gregory Thurston.....Ray Carlstrom	Dagmar White.....Norma Powell
Mark Warrington.....Bill Kelley	Loretta Frawly.....Dorothy Reebel
Bridget O'Hara.....Ruth Mauerman	Rita Clifford.....Patty Milarr
Valerie Ziegler.....Jeanne Belleville	Mrs. Henry Atwell.....Wanda Toman
Spencer Atwell.....Bill McLaughlin	Fay Duffy.....Helen DeCicco
Gloria Gilbert.....Jean Miller	Olive West.....Clara Wadleck
Kay Lindsey.....Janet Woods	Herbert Ross.....Jack Melrose

June Senior Play

ON Friday evening, May 31, the June Senior play, "Young April," held the stage of South Auditorium. A splendid cast gave the performance of their lives for the dear old '40. Many of the older members of the audience were carried back to the days of their youth when they were in the "throes" of young love. Many a youth in the audience got a laugh at himself through the eyes of another like him, for "all the world's a stage." This play was written by William Spence Rouverol in collaboration with his mother, Aurania Rouverol, the latter the author of the popular Judge Hardy family series. "Young April" is the story of the McIntyre family, substituting George for Andy and Terry for Marian. It is a genuine study of the "inter-reactions" of parent and youngster during the tender, romantic, impulsive, "Young April" age.

Both the setting and the acting left nothing to be desired.

The Cast:

Professor McIntyre, Wesley Dawson, Jr.	Mrs. Miller.....Norma Mae Smith
Mrs. McIntyre.....Thelma Jolly	Diane Gilmore....June Cunningham
George McIntyre.....Bob Beight	Vivian.....Betty Miller
Jerry McIntyre.....Elizabeth Poling	Jane.....Lucille Ceglie
Lulu (the maid).....Dorothy Boshim	Mildred.....Ann Diehm
Brian Stanley.....Wendell Williams	Elsie.....Marian Hendrickson

The Stagecraft Club

THE Stagecraft Club was founded in 1924 by its present adviser, Mr. E. G. Diehm. The first play that the club presented was Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing". During the school year of 1939-1940 the club produced "Stage Door" by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman, and a Christmas play, "The Gift of the Magi". "The South High Revue" finished the season.

The officers for the semester starting in September, 1939, were: Norma Powell, president; Don Harris, treasurer; Harriet Smith, secretary.

The officers for the semester starting in January, 1940, are: Duane Barret, president; Bill Farragher, vice president; Thelma Jolly, secretary, and Paul Shorts, treasurer.

The membership consists of: Sue Bahm, Rose Ann Barnes, Dorothy Boshim, Clair Bigelow, Mary Callan, Lucille Ceglie, Gloria Cianciolo, Martha Jean Conner*, June Cunningham, Helen DeCicco, Ann Diehm, Frances Dugan*, Catherine Freed, Bill Farragher, Kay Finger, Carol Geary, Jean Gillian, Marilyn Hart*, Marian Hendrickson*, Frances Huth, Nancy James, Gordon Johnson, Irene Josewick*, Thelma Jolly, Carolyn Keith, Shirley Kenvin, Jack Kopp, Melvin Blockinger, Margaret Lambert, Kathryn Lang, Jimmie Leake, Phyllis Marsden, Jean Marvin, Angeline Massucci, Martha McClaran, Mary McClaran, Marjorie McKinven, Patricia Meissner, Ruth Mellon, Bill Michaels, Patty Milarr, Jean Miller, Betty Miller, Marjorie Montgomery, Jack Morgan, Betty Moul*, Patricia Nally*, Ruth Nelson*, Bernice Panizh, Helen Peterson, Elizabeth Poling, Margaret Sabino, Douglas Shasby, Paul Shorts, Elisabeth Smith, Norma Mae Smith*, Mary Lou Snyder, Murray Stone, Jeanne Taylor, Robert Watkins, Ruth Wallace, Joan Wilber, Mildred Williams, Bob Wollter, Robert Young.

“Stage Door” Dramatic Success

FOLLOWING the performance of “Stage Door” on January 18 and 19, the audience unanimously acclaimed the play as one of the best ever presented on the South High stage. To name each and every one who gave an outstanding performance would be to name the entire cast.

The artistic stage set, designed and executed by members of the Stagecraft Club, offered an appropriate background for a brilliant production.

The play was directed by E. G. Diehm.

The characters were as follows:

Olga Brandt.....Catherine Freed
Bernice Niemeyer.....Marilyn Hart
Susan Paige.....June Cunningham

South High Motion Picture Club

THE South High Motion Picture Club was founded in November of 1938, under the supervision of Mr. Biggs and Mr. Chapel. The primary purpose of this club's organization was to bring to the student body the benefit of visual education. Each member is thoroughly trained in the operation and servicing of the equipment.

The officers for the year are: President, Ned Wiseman; Vice President, Harry Schultz; Secretary, Robert Remick; Treasurer, Jack Hoelzel.

Names marked (*) are old members.

The Voice

THE Voice of South High is a weekly publication designed to provide the students with last minute news and to offer them an opportunity to submit for publication literary compositions of merit. Extra! Extra!

Read All About It!

Forced from scenes of comparative safety and comfort into the cold uncompromising world of the future, six hundred and eighty South High graduates were hopeful today that through their own will to succeed they would soon be able to win their way into more advantageous positions of security and promise. In their grim determination to face the facts and to make the best of a difficult situation, they present a reassuring picture of Young America.

Amicitia

THE Amicitia Girl Reserve Club is composed of senior girls who organized when they were sophomores and have carried on their work throughout their three years at South. Its purpose is to unite its members in a spirit of service and friendliness.

Throughout the year there are social activities, such as dances and teas; service projects in which the girls help others who are less fortunate than themselves; and, of course, regular meetings which prove to be helpful and entertaining.

The work during the past year has been carried on by its officers, Harriet Smith, president; Mary Lou Snyder, vice president; Marian Hendrickson, secretary; and Thelma Jolly, treasurer, under the guidance of its competent advisers, Miss Helene Hull and Miss Dorothy Weichman. The three Triangle Mothers, Mrs. J. J. Jolly, Mrs. A. W. Houser, and Mrs. E. L. Snyder worked along with efficient committees to carry out the season's programs.

Included in the membership are the following girls: Lucille Bahm, Elizabeth Baker, Jean Ann Barthelmay, Bess Marie Bedell, Olive Bedell, Jeanne Beede, Jeanne Belleville, Lois Bloom, Beverly Boase, Gertrude Booth, Dorothy Boshim, Laura Jane Bragg, Mary Briach, Beryl Bryden, Peggy Bullock, Vera Bushong, Mary Callan, Evelyn Camm, Lucille Ceglie, Gloria Cianciola, Mary Fleta Coombs, Martha Jean Conner, Irene Costakis, Morphia Cummings, June Cunningham, Juanita Daniels, Lois de Carpentier, Helen DeCicco, Ann Diehm, Myrtle Donahue, Kathleen Duff, Frances Dugan, Beverle Eckerle, Mildred Ekblad, Helen Ervin, Marjorie Farmer, Helen Fasilis, Alice Faust, Ann Filicky, Kay Finger, Betty Fish, Dorothy Flanagan, Virginia Flick, Catherine Freed, Betty Furlen, Carol Geary, Jean Gillian, Irene Geressy, Marcella Gorham, Martha Griffiths, Audrey Grimm, Florence Hakli, Evelyn Hamilton, Constance Haymond, Gloria Henderson, Elizabeth Hill, Viola Hillosky, Audrey Hobbs, Marjorie Houser, Eleanor Howell, Francis Huth, Viola Hvizdak, Marjorie Iman, Viola Irving, Nancy James, Naomi Joerndt, Mary Johns, Betty Johnston, Jewell Deane Jones, Wanda Jones, Dorothy Juback, Mary Jurcho, Betty Kauffman, Jane Komp, Carolyn Keith, Geraldine Keller, Peggy Kelley, Arlene King, Helen Kohut, Stella Koken, Margaret Lambert, Irene Leinen, Lois Lucas, Marguerite McFarland, Patricia McLaughlin, Joanne Mackin, Norma Malin, Shirley Malkin, Eileen Mangan, Frances Marchiori, Phyllis Marsden, Ruth Martin, Jean Marvin, Katherine Mathews, Rosemary Mayer, Ruth Mellon, Patty Millarr, Betty Jane Miller, Jean Miller, Marjorie Montgomery, Ann Morgan, Margretta Myers, Patricia Nally, Betty Neirlick, Ruth Nelson, Irene Nemeth, Helen Nicolau, Donna Ohl, Sarah Owen, Marjorie Pabst, Jean Phillips, Mary Ellen Phillips, Elizabeth Poling, Norma Powell, Marcia Preacher, Laura Price, Mary Putnam, Dorothy Rigelsky, Ruth Rodkey, Henrietta Rosenfield, Barbara Russell, Margaret Sabino, Margaret Shannon, Ruth Shea, Ruth Sheridan, Claire Shriver, Betty Simko, Nancy Simmerly, Elisabeth Smith, Miriam Stone, Catherine Sullivan, Jeanne Talor, Laura Westwood, Joan Wilber, Janet Woods, Ann Zlunko.

Phi-D Club

Hi-Y

January

THE South Hi-Y Club is affiliated with the Young Men's Christian Association which sponsors the Hi-Y groups in Mahoning County. The purpose of the Hi-Y club is "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character." The platform is "Clean speech, clean scholarship, clean sportsmanship, and clean living."

The outstanding features of the club program were the Thirty-sixth Ohio Hi-Y State Conference held at South High School, a Morning Altar Service broadcast over one of the local stations, a Hi-Y Church Night program at the South U. P. Church, an All-City Hi-Y Dance at the Nu-Elms, a joint meeting with the Girl Reserves, a Hi-Y-A.Z.A.-Torch Meeting, a South Hi-Y Dance, and a farewell party for the graduating seniors.

June

THE following members took over the various executive positions: Bob Bricker, president; Dick Lloyd, vice president; Thomas Atwood, secretary; Wesley Dawson, treasurer.

Three important events in the club program for this semester were the Third Annual Hi-Y-Girl Reserve-Torch Easter Vesper Service held at the First Baptist Church, the Third Annual Mahoning Valley Youth Conference sponsored by the Hi-Y, G.R., Torch Councils of Mahoning Valley, and the Hi-Y Civic Day, when representatives from each club took over certain city and county offices. Those who represented South High were: Robert Bricker, president of the council; Wendell Williams, finance director; Thomas Atwood, health commissioner; Richard Lloyd, police captain; Richard Martin, Fifth Ward councilman; and Paul Shorts, Sixth Ward councilman. The Hi-Y Church Night at St. Paul's Reformed Church, the All-City May Prom at Idora Park, a Hi-Y-A.Z.A.-Torch Meeting, and a South Hi-Y dance were other social and religious activities for the semester.

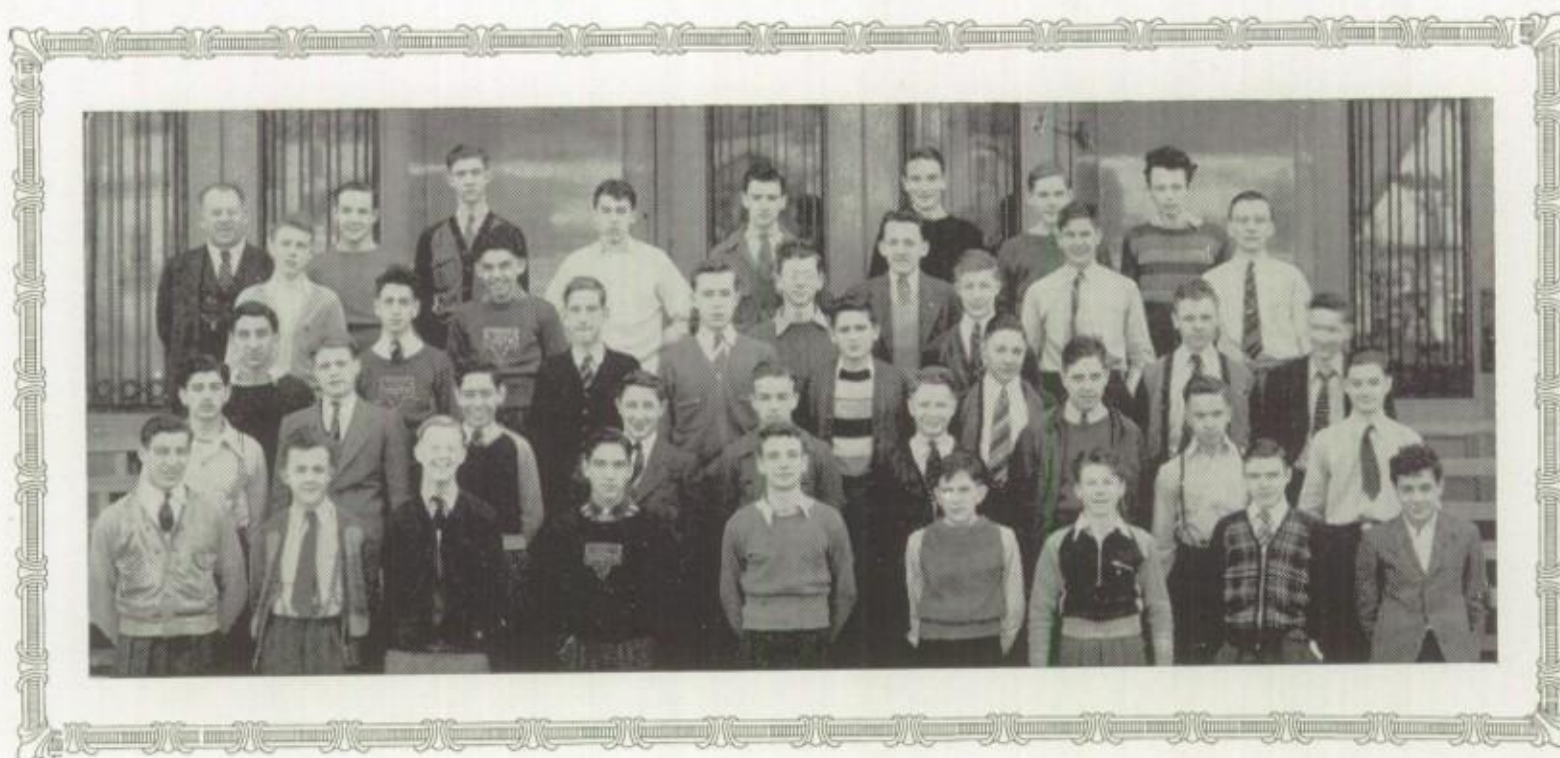

For a service project the club furnished and dyed eggs for the Annual "Y" Easter Egg Hunt.

The local club was active in both the Hi-Y basketball and baseball leagues, reaching the semi-finals in the basketball tournament.

Sterling Bondesen has been chosen as one of the four representatives from Youngstown to the Third National Hi-Y Congress to be held in June at Oberlin College.

Members elected for this semester are: Joseph Compolito, Donald Dawson, Arnold DeWalk, William Diehm, Charles Esterhay, William Farragher, George Hadnett, Jack Irving, Daniel Kautz, Jack Mace, Richard Martin, Arthur McEldowney, Homer McMurray, William Medicus, Cornelius Morley, Robert Pierson, Paul Shorts, Karl Soller, Roy Wagstaff, Robert Young.

Mr. Calvin and Mr. Scannell have completed six and a half successful years as club advisers.

Torch Club

THE South High Torch Club is a sophomore organization affiliated with the Y.M.C.A. The objective of the Torch Club is to secure for themselves and their fellow students the highest standards of scholarship, sportsmanship, and conduct.

The goal of all Torch work is "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character."

The officers of the Torch Club are: Buster Halleck, president; Bob Bothwell, secretary; Harry Adcock, treasurer; and Mr. Biggs is the club adviser. Under the guidance of these officers a successful semester was completed.

The Girls Athletic Association

THE G.A.A. is an organization for girls interested in sports. This organization was founded with the idea of creating fair play and true comradeship among the girls. Football

WITH only three lettermen returning and only a short practice session behind them, the South gridders started their season under the watchful eyes of our new coach, John McAfee.

South defeated Wilson in the opening game of the season with a score of 7-0, but lost their second encounter with Niles, 13-0, and their contest with the powerful Memorial eleven, 26-0.

Next, South handed Chaney her first City Series defeat in four years by a 6-0 score. By means of an automatic safety, Girard downed South 2-0. East, although outplayed in every department except punting, scored with a blocked kick to defeat South in the second City Series game, 6-0. It was by this same score that South was beaten by Warren. South took the next two games, tripping East Liverpool, 13-0, and Salem 13-6. In a game boasting all the color and traditional rivalry of previous meetings, the South and Rayen teams battled to a 6-6 deadlock in their annual encounter.

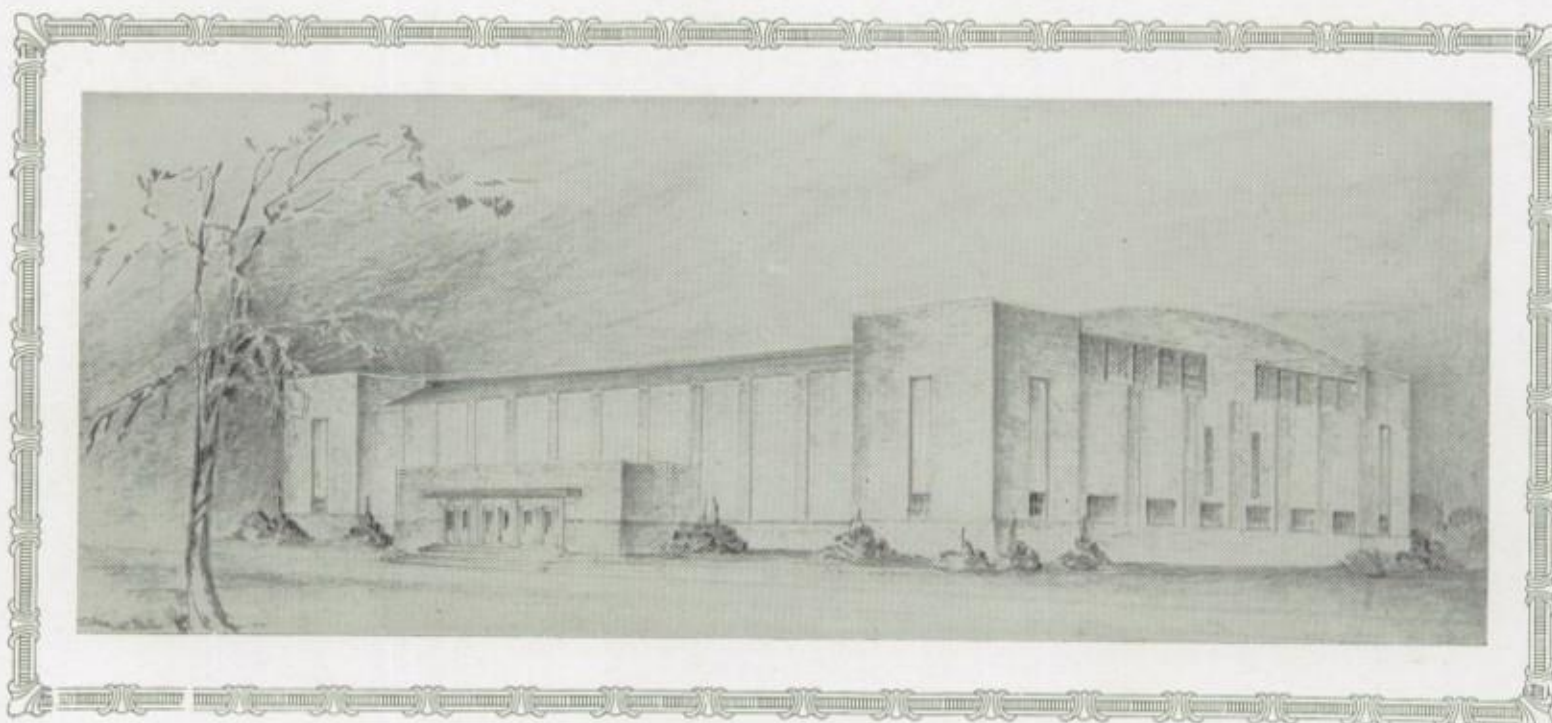

South won four games, lost five, and tied one. Jack Cramb and Bill Richards were named on the first team in the All-City selections, while Bob Kollar and Al Stabilito were chosen for the second team.

Second Row—Coach John McAfee, Walter Dietz, Frank Reebel, Dan Williams, James Herdman, Mike Vigarino, Emil Nemeth, Assistant Coach Dave Williams.

Third Row—Bill Brown, Alfred Stabilito, Don Thomas, Bob Petersen, Bob Crane, Jack James, Bill Richards, Edward Broda.

Fourth Row—Manager Bill Chamar, Bob Probyn, James Ruse, Dalvin Hancock, Sheridan Weaver, Tom Jeffries, Jack Friedman, Manager John Flint.

New South High Field House

Basketball 1939-1940

UNDER the leadership of Coach Dave Williams, the South High basketball team enjoyed a fairly successful season.

After suffering defeat at the hands of Massillon in the opening game, South came back strong to defeat Niles and Hubbard before being downed by East Liverpool. After beating the Alumni and the Youngstown College Reserves, the cagers dropped three straight games to Salem, Memorial, and New Castle. South lost its first game in the city series play to East, and after defeating Wilson, lost to Rayen, our traditional rival, who later forfeited the game. By defeating Scienceville and Chaney, the Red and Blue won second place in the city series competition. In the Northeastern Ohio Tournament, South made a good start by defeating Sebring, but was eliminated from the contest in the next game by Rayen.

Osborne and Lloyd, active lettermen this season, are graduating seniors; other lettermen returning are Jefferies, Lally, Johnson, De Michele, Gage, Crane, and Zemba. Other varsity players were Weaver, Zabel, and Gustafson.

The Reserves had a highly successful season, winning ten of eleven games. Davenport, Dunn, Hancock, Harrison, Miller, Russell, Stephens, and Zellers comprised the team and will report for varsity tryouts in the fall.
